CITY MATTERS.

Miss Faunie Rhinehart, of Troy, spent yes terday with friends in this city.

Mrs. J. W. Crane and daughter, Miss Eugenia, of East High street, are spending a few weeks at Lakeside.

Mr. H. Herbert Emery, of Cleveland, formerly of this city, and elder brother of Mr. Geo. W. Emery, is in the city on a visit for a few days, and called on old friends at the GLORE-REPUBLIC office last evening.

The ladies of the Congregational church will hold a social next Thursday evening, at the residence of Mrs. G. W. Hastings, northwest corner of Main and Race streets. Brief literary and musical programme, light refreshments, and a good time for all comers. All friends invited.

Charles Warren, a notorious colored thief, who has just finished a sentence of r year and a half in the penitentiary for snatching a woman's pocket-book on Market street, returned from Columbus last Sunday and has been meandering about town ever since. Officers Caldwell and Bass arrested him on Market street last evening and locked him up on a charge of loitering.

The Young Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society of St. Paul church will give an entertainment Thursday evening, July 9, consisting of recitations by the Gale family, Miss Iza, Kittie, Bee and Master Paul. The Gales are very fine elocutionists and are unequaled in their character representations. The programme will be varied by music. Everybody urged to come. Admission 25 cents.

At the North Lewisburg meeting, addressed by Judge Forsker and Gen. Kennedy. Rev. Wm. Overhuls, a Methodist minister who carried a musket during the war, made the opening prayer and Rev. W. A. Shannon, another Methodist minister pronounced the benediction. St. John and his sort would style these men "moral cowards," and all the rest of it, and read them out of the church.

The GLOBE-REPUBLIC'S South Charleston correspondent has a thrilling tale to tell this week of the pursuit with blood-hounds and capture at that place of a runaway couple from Clifton; the woman, wife of a man named Brierly, and her companion a chap named Tilman. The refusal of the woman's husband to turnish her with a pair of shoes precipitated the escapade, and the affair was compromised by the neglectful spouse agreeing to buy the shoes, after which the husband and wife returned to Clifton and Tilman was released from jail. But read the account.

Hashed Beef.

Through a chance break in a tence a fine Alderney cow, one of the best in the herd at the County Childrens' Home and a pet with all the inmates, wandered upon the L. B. & W. railroad track yesterday, in the deep cut along the Home grounds. The express coming this way from Sandusky ran the poor creature down where there was no chance for escape and ground her into mincement, scattering the body along the track, without wheel leaving the rails. The cow was worth $40 or $50 and will have to be replaced at once by the trustees. The place where the accident occurred is a bad one, the road making a curve in the cut.

Thrown from His Horse.

About half-past five o'clock last evening Nicholas Bradley, a boy ten years old, son of J. D. Bradley, residing at the corner of State and Yellow Springs streets, met with a painful accident. He was riding on horse-back with a boy companion, and was going at a good rate of speed near the house on Yellow Springs street, when his bridle broke and the home threw him. He fell heavily on the back of his head and lay there stunned and senseless until he was carried to the house by a comple of ladies who had witnessed the fall. Medical assistance was procured at once, and consciousness was restored after long and hard work. Though no bones were broken, the case is considered a serious one.

Collared.

Marshal J. B. Collar, of Washington C. H. came up yesterday morning in search of a colored man named Jack Rankin, who had been in the habit of stealing hoge from the farmers of Fayette county, O. Among others had, in March, gotten away with one valued at $50, belonging to Christopher Martin, near Bloomingburg, for which he was indicted at the May sitting of the Grand Jury. He then fied to Kansas, and was beard of no more until he came to this city last week. Marshal Collar got a pointer over the telephone Saturday night but when he arrived this morning he tound that his man had gone to Yellow Springs. He hastened thither, captured his man and returned with him to Washington in the evening.

Give Him a Boquet. An item of more than usual interest will be found in the report of the session of the Board of Education printed in another column. Mr. Warren presented a set of resolutions so framed as to do away with the custom of permitting every member of the graduating class, be his work good, bad or indifferent, to inflict his production on the audience. He asked that action on them be postponed until next week, and supported them in a little speech, showing that it would York." also serve as an incentive to the pupils, who would naturally be ambitious to receive the honor appointments. The plan seemed to meet with much favor, and doubtess the resolutions will be adopted at the next meeting, either whooly or in part.

He Missed the Eclipse

He Missed the Sciipse.

"Did you see the eclipse" asked a Fulion street man of his neighbor. "See it? No. I had a glass and something amoky, but it was a glass of what the hertonder catled 'Smoky scotch', and I was eclipsed myself by the fase! oil in it." "Well," said the other, "I saw the eclipse, and had some whiskey, too; but it was DUFFY'S PURE MALY WHIS KEY, which I hay from my druggist. It is as much a medicine as it is a beverage. It has no polsonous residuum and is the only really pure article that I have been able to find. My daughter was quickly relieved week before last from a severe attack of pouemonia, and says DUFFY'S PURE MALY WHISKEY did her more good than any medicine she took. It has cured me of malaria, which I contracted last summer."

By Mr. Kelly—Approval of clerk's report for June by Auditing committee. Filed.

By the same—Bids for coal were presented and the motion of Mr. Lorenz to accept Pimbott's bid was carried, giving the Committee on Fuel discretion to select the kind of coal wanted. By Mr. Martindell—The following bills from the Claims Committee: Robert Jardine, re-pairing, $6.05; Springfield Gas & Coke Co., $2.45; R. P. Willis & Son, $33.50. Ordered the Rules Committee to report a rule making such a change in the time of electing the teachers and janitors that there will be no confliction with the Tax Commission.

By the same, a suggestion to obviate the interminable graduation exercises of the high school, worded as follows: As at present conducted, the annual anniversary exercises of the High school are of necessity of too great length, and are very unsatisfactory, both to the graduating class and to the general public. It is also impossible, with the present custom of assigning a part to every member of the graduating class to turnish that stimulus to individual effort during the High School course, which is necessary to the greatest effectiveness of the school; therefore

Resolved, That members of the incoming A class who may attain to an average of 90 per cent, during the coming year; that members of the incoming B class who may attain to an average of 90 per cent, for the next two years; and that members of the incoming C class who may attain to an average of 85 per cent, for the three years of their High School course, shall be assigned a part in the public anniversary exercises at the close of each year respectively; and be it further

Resolved, That, beginning with the ecoming C class, all members of the High School who may attain to an average of 85 per cent, for the whole course, or 90 per cent, for the last two years, or 95 per cent, for the Senior year shall be assigned a part in the public anniversary exercises at the close of their course, such assignment to constitute an honor of the third grade; that all who attain to an average of 90 per cent, for the whole course shall be assigned a part, which shall constitute an honor of the second grade; and that all who attain to an average of 95 per cent, for the whole course shall be assigned a part, which shall constitute an honor of the first grade. And he it turther Resolved—That, if in the judgment of the Superintendent and teachers in the High School these shall be those who have achieved marked success in their literary and rhetorical exercises, who do not obtain any of the per cents, above indicated, such pupils, to a num-ber not to exceed two, may, at the discretion of the Superintendent and teachers, be assigned a part in the public exercises at the close of their course, such assignment to con-stitute an honor of the third grade. Only such pupils as are included in one of the classes mentioned above shall take part in the anniversary exercises. Consideration postponed until next meeting.

By Mr. Eisenminger-Motion that the Committee on Boundaries, etc., be instructed to look up a farorable location for a colored school building on Pleasant or Clark street west of Yellow Springs street and report at the next meeting. Carried. Adjourned.

Mention has been already made by the GLORE-REPUBLIC of the marriage of Miss liva Nichols, a Springfield lady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Nichols, and Mr. W. Porter, at Lima, Ohio, present home of the parties. The Lima Daily Democrat says of the affair "At 8:30 o'clock Mr. T. S. Balliett went to the piano and began playing the Mendelssohn wedding march, which betokened the appearance of the party. Six little bridesmaids Misses Alice and Maggie Holdridge, Mamie and Louis Nichols, Kitty Waldort and Janie Porter, led the way with Rev. R. Wallace The to be bride and groom followed and took their places in an archway, under a cauopy of lace, ornamented with benutiful ferns and smilax. The beautiful and impressive marriage ceremony of the M. E. church was then spoken, and they were pronounced man and wife. The bride was dressed in white surah silk, trimmed in brocaded satin, with front of velvet flowers on satin background, lace at neck and throat, with bouquet of white roses in her hand. The groom did not depart from the usual custom, and was dressed in plain black. After many hearty congratulations from numerous friends the wedding party and guests sat down to the wedding supper to discuss the ceremony and accompaniments. The feast was superb, all the delicacies of the season that could be procured from the city being served. There were over one hundred guests who sat long and merry at the tables.

The presents were many and most ele gant. They were not only ornamental but also useful and fit to adorn the home of the young people in pertect elegance. There were but few regrets and those were from friends from a distance who found it impossible to be present.

The bride and groom left on the mid-night train for a visit with relatives in the West, and a trip through the North West. They will return in about two weeks and take up their residence on West Market street.

The following persons from abroad were present: Miss Nell Wilson, Muskegon, Mich.; Miss Bertha Pierce, Springfield; Mr Beneroft, Springfield; Mrs. Kate Sparks, Kenton; G. L. Marble, Van Wert; Miss Hull, of Fremont, and Miss Sheather, of New

The Clay Pigeon Match. There will be a meeting of the S. S. and F. Club Thursday, July 9, at which all who shot at the Fair Grounds on the 4th of July are requested to be present. Matters of importance to all members of the club will be discussed and a full attendance is requested. Meeting called at 8 p. m. at Slack & Son's gun store. Arrangements will be made to shoot off the unfinished match of last Saturday, in order to dispose of the prizes which are now in the hands of the club,

Mr. Wilbur Gunn arrived from New York last evening and expects to remain at home cares Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25c. per box. For sale by more than one musical treat while he is here.

Three Hundred Russian Exiles Who Are Doing Pretty Well in South Jersey.

The colony of Jewish refugees from Russia established three years ago on eleven hundred acres of land near here, writes a Vineland, N. J., correspondent to The New Fork Sun, purchased by the Hebrew Immigration Society, of New York, and the Jewish Society, of London, has outlived the hardships of London, has outlived the hardships of its first years, and is beginning to be a prosperous community. The land is a rolling sea of little scrub oaks, four or five feet high, punctuated with creet dead pine trunks. Scattered here and there among the hills and hollows of the tract the sixty frame shanties in which the colonists live are hardly noticeable. The little patches of field, on which the grubbing up of the oaks on which the grubbing up of the oaks has exposed a light, sandy woll that ev-ery breeze raises in a cloud of dust, seem mere occasional scratchings up of the face of the barrens. There are no streets, no church, no stores, mills, or factories, nor any other indication, except the scattered bouses, that three hundred people are there.

Since the first year, when all lived together in barracks, the land has been divided. Each family has about fifteen acres. Each plat cost the soci-eties from $350 to $400, and the occupant is to pay for it one-half of the cost. They must pay 3 per cent. a year upon this price, and this interest is credited upon the principal, so that they practically have thirty-three years in which to pay for their homes. Under this arrangement the colonists take more interest in their work, and take more interest in their work, and although they were all natives of cities, tradesmen, artisans, and mechanics and knew little of farming, they have got their small clearings into a fair state of cultivation, and will this year raise an abundant crop of strawberries, raspberries and blackberries. These small fruits are all that the land car be made to produce profitably. Find-ing the colony in the wilderness is like looking for a four-leaved clover. A uery addressed to the open door of whitewashed shanty apparently several miles from anywhere yesterday: "Is there a Russian Jew colony anywhere around?" brought out a flaxen-haired man, a dark wife, with a red handkerchief hood-fashion on her head, and two children. Smiles were the prominent characteristic of the group. The man talked English. The rest jab-

"How are you getting along nowa-"Coo-oom-a cen an' see," and the wife and children repeated the invita-tion in Russian, while the man led off the visitor's horse to a convenient tree. Inside the one chair was carefully wiped with a towel before the visitor was allowed to sit down. The man sat on a bench and contemplated a bowl of milk and some bread on the table. He hoped the gentleman would ex-cuse a him if he went on with his dinner; he had to get back to work-a. While the wife and children smiled contentedly with reflected satisfaction of hunger, and neighbors peered in at the door and window, between bites and smiles, in his slow, uncertain English, the man said the sixty families in the colony were getting along firstrate now, with the money they got from their berries and from working for other berry-growers in summer and chopping wood in winter. They liked the country 'ver-a moo-ooch; moo-ooch better than een Russin. They were all going to vote as soon as they got their papers. They have no church, but the rabbi holds services around in the houses every Saturday. Their children all go to a district school. The wife-neighbors jabbered apparently approving comments this information was given. When the bread and milk and the information gave out, the whole party -tood out-side and smiled as the stranger drove

It has been lately discovered that the body of John Foxe, author of the fa-mous "Book of Martyrs," was interred on the south side of the chancel of St. Giles' Church, Cripplegate, London, of which church and parish he was for some time vicar. A slab which had been overlaid has been found on the western wall of said church, bearing the following inscription: "John Foxe, the most faithful martyrologist of the hurch of England, the most sagacious investigator of historical antiquity, the most valiant defender of the evangelical truth, a wondrous worker of miracles, who presented the Marian martyrs, like phonixes, alive from their

Iron Versus Alcohol.

In doctoring sick people with alcoholic mixtures, the first mischief is that the fiery stuff burns its way through inflamed, delicate tissues which ought to be soothed and strengthened. Then the most sensitive part gives way, lungs, brain, or stomach, as the case may be. With the weak and debilitated need is Brown's Iron Bitters. Iron for en-riching the blood; tonics for the general strengthening of the system. Mr. Thos. G. Damels, Wauley, Ga., says, "I have used Brown's Iron Bitters, and advise all dyspeptic, nervous, low-spirited persons to do the same."
